THIS IS ME. THIS KLAUTA.
I'M CREATING. I'M DRIVEN.
YOU ARE INVITED. YOU ARE WELCOME.

Multi-instrumentalist and songwriter Matthias Ledwinka (also drummer of Austrian Alt-Rock band LAUSCH) created himself a new playground. After working with several projects for over a decade, he took a break and became a dad. But being driven by passion, this break didn't last long - ideas and music pushed back into his thoughts.

The concept of klawuta is simple: It's a home-coming. Home is his studio, here the songs are written and recorded first-hand. That's what Matthias always enjoyed most in musician's life. Live-shows with all their compromises, sticky floors in the clubs, dirty backstage rooms, long roadtrips – that's in the past and not really missed.

His latest single „Cold Coffee“ is a solemn track processing massive changes in private life. Things come to an end, emotions cool off. But „a magic dwells in each beginning“ (Hermann Hesse) and a big loss may provide some breeding ground for something much bigger and more beautiful.

So the song has some melancholic but positive vibe, carried by klawuta's inherent unorthodox but driven rhythmic and a voice telling an emotional story. After collaborating with other musicians like Jonah Matranga (Far, Gratitude, New End Original, Onlinedrawing) in his previous singles, this time Matthias played and recorded all instruments himself, without pressure or haste, just letting his work grow over months. He also produced the musicvideo on his own. So this is as indie as it can be but without the demand to sound out of the garage, but to sound clear and deliberate.

So there's always two options for cold coffee: Drink it or leave it.
